
The Review Home Page

The Current Issue

- From the Editor
- Letters
- Essays
- In Translation
- Reviews
- From the Archives
- The Gimlet Eye
- Interviews

The Review Archives

Subscriber Services

The Review Home Page

FREE ACCESS TO THIS ARTICLE

Weijian Shan, economist and avid private equity investor, exposes the shortcomings of China's stock markets and examines the failed attempts by the government to introduce meaningful stock-market reform. (read more...)

ESSAYS

Weijian Shan, economist and avid private equity investor, exposes the shortcomings of China's stock markets and examines the failed attempts by the government to introduce meaningful stock-market reform. (read more...)

Omkar Goswami, economist and founder-chairman of CERG Advisory, argues that behind all the hype, there are clear reasons India's growth prospects lag China's. (read more...)

Greg Rushford, editor and publisher of the Rushford Report, reveals the dirty secret of the WTO—U.S. antidumping duties—and explains why they have been sidelined at the Hong Kong ministerial meeting. (read more...)

Join Asia's Opinion Leaders.

From as low as US$9 per month!
subscribe here

Save 60%
limited time only.

- Subscription
- Digital Edition
- Renewal
- Gift Subscription
- E-Alert
- Other DJ products

Advertise in the Review

- Introduction
- Incentive Plans & Rates
- Technical Specs
- Publication Schedule
- Terms & Conditions
- Contact Us

About the Review

- Introduction
- History
- Who We Are
- Privacy Policy
- Contact Us
- Submit Articles

Other Sites from Dow Jones

and more

About Dow Jones

Barun S. Mitra, director of the Liberty Institute, looks at Hong Kong and India, and describes how different attitudes to free trade can make or break countries' economies. (read more...)

Vaclav Smil, professor at the University of Manitoba, chronicles China's water woes and predicts a bleak and thirsty future for the Middle Kingdom. (read more...)

Shelley Rigger, professor of international relations at Rhodes College, and John F. Copper, professor of international studies at Davidson College, assess how Taiwan's Democratic Progressive Party might arrest—and blame itself for—its downward momentum. (read more...)

Kim Wan-soon, former investment ombudsman, and Lee You-il, international business lecturer, say the re-emergence of xenophobia in South Korea is making the task of attracting FDI more difficult. (read more...)

Brahma Chellaney, of the Center for Policy Research in New Delhi, says a devastating earthquake in northern Pakistan allows the region to clear away conditions that spawned terrorism. (read more...)

Kiichi Fujiwara, professor of law at the University of Tokyo, finds that Japan's recent provocative gestures have their roots in imagined memories of World War II. (read more...)

Jared Genser, an attorney with the global law firm DLA Piper Rudnick Gray Cary, explains the significance of the U.N. turning its attention to the plight of Burma. (read more...)

IN TRANSLATION

Hong Kong's Next magazine calls for Beijing to do the right thing and give Hong Kong people full democracy. (read more...)

REVIEWS

Bertil Lintner on a distinguished Indian journalist's account of the marriage of radical Islam and terror in Bangladesh. (read more...)

Ben Hillman on a controversial critique of Beijing's development policies

NEW

GET YOUR FREE TRIAL
NOW!

GET 2 ISSUES FREE!

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL BRIEFING

Free Monthly
E-Alerts

Register here

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

+

WSJ.com

Get both for the price of print only

Subscribe Now!

Click here to learn more for Tibet. \(read more...\)

Kerry Brown on a collection of varied perspectives on private-sector business in China. \(read more...\)

Hugo Restall on a slim volume that ambitiously examines America's China policy from Nixon to George W. Bush. \(read more...\)

Phar Kim Beng on a seasoned analyst's historical account of political Islam's entrenchment in Indonesia. \(read more...\)

Mishi Saran on a newly translated popular novel about a Korean Bridget Jones. \(read more...\)

William MacNamara on a comprehensive, if wonkish, examination of Japan's deep-seated economic challenges. \(read more...\)

FROM THE ARCHIVES

Former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher urged Asian nations to embrace free trade in a 1993 REVIEW Op-Ed. \(read more...\)

back to top

Copyright ©2004 Review Publishing Company Limited, Hong Kong. All rights reserved. Privacy Policy

